Tēnā koe Christine,

I write to acknowledge the receipt of your letter this afternoon. As you are most likely aware, Andrew Coleman is travelling on business and unable to respond to your concerns. However, I can advise that Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga:

- notes the extreme urgency of your communication; and
- remains engaged in a constructive and ongoing dialogue with Ryman about the future of the Karori Teachers' Training College to protect as much of the historic fabric of the College as can be achieved with their agreement;

I am not in a position to advise as to the latest information regarding the possibility of a heritage order on the site although I understand it is thought that current work with Ryman may alleviate the need for this.

Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga does envisage some loss of the College's heritage significance as part of its discussions with Ryman. The level of this loss has not yet been agreed and Ryman have not given us cause to believe that they will act unilaterally in the meantime.

Ngā mihi nui

Claire
